STRONG FUTURE FOR SCS

SCS is the only procedure that you can try before deciding on surgery.

Why now? The technology used in spinal cord stimulators has evolved significantly over the past 45 years, and with recent advances SCS now offers an attractive treatment option for pain.

- ✓ Smaller, more comfortable implants
- ✓ Expanded indications
- ✓ Wireless technology
- ✓ Improved trial process
- ✓ Customized therapy

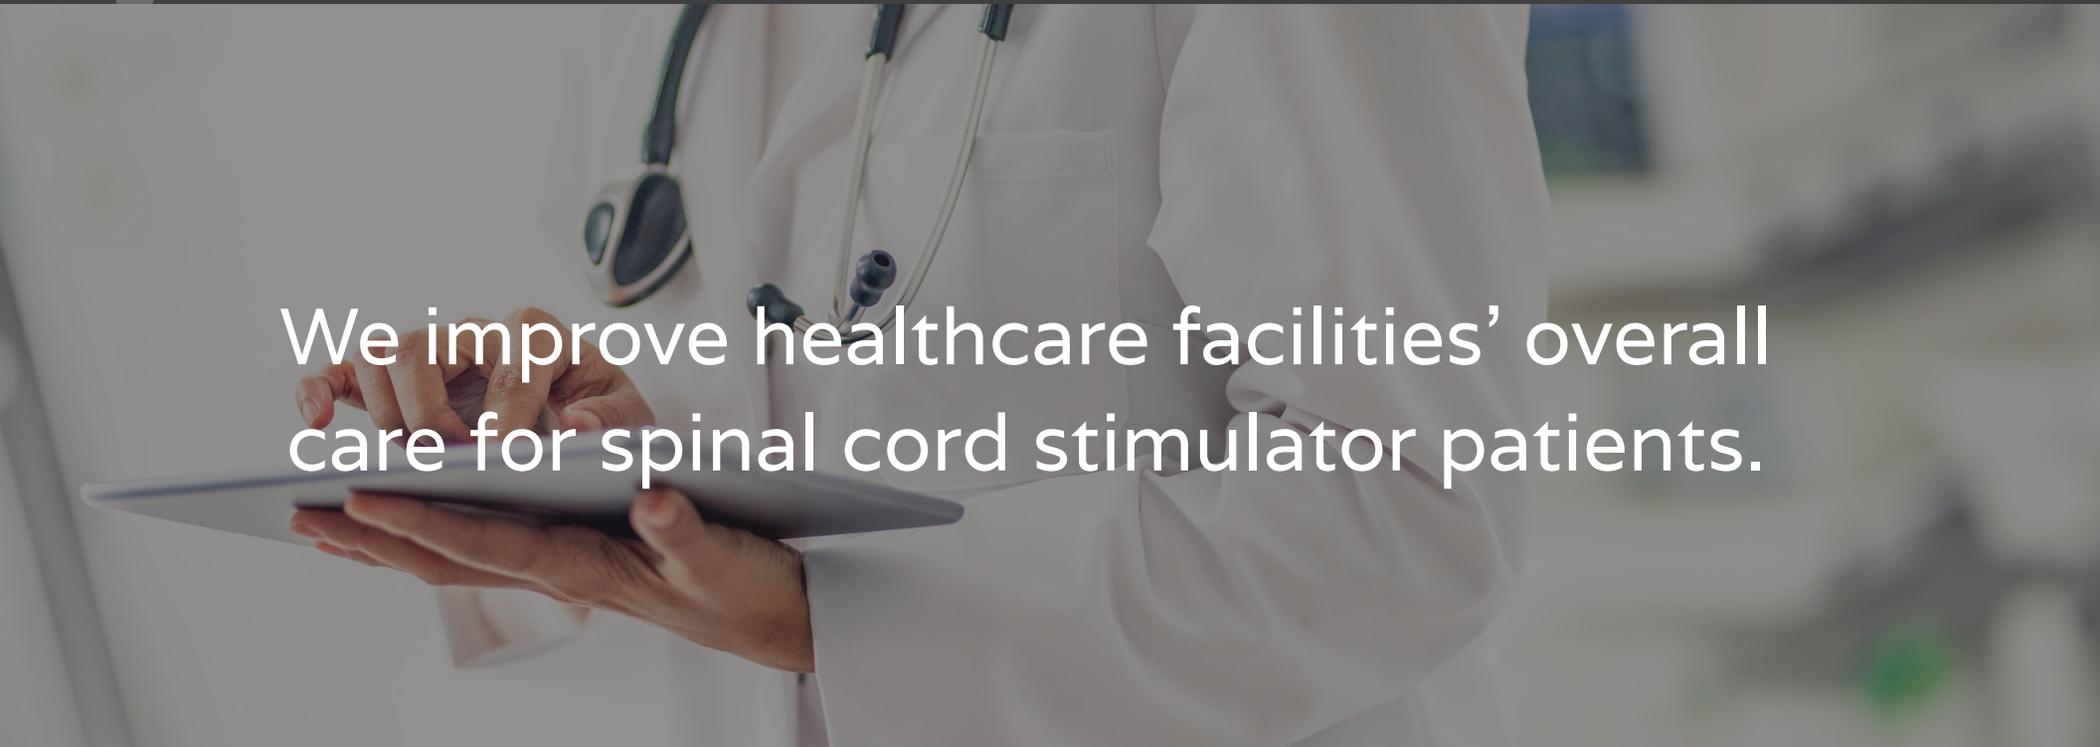

Because of those advances we passionately believe there is a strong and growing future for SCS technology as a minimally invasive alternative to other surgical intervention.

SCS future? Continuous technological improvements will open more ways in which to utilize SCS. This emerging technology is forecasted to grow the applications for SCS significantly over the next 7–10 years. As physicians become more educated and confident about SCS's increased capabilities, they will consider it as a viable alternative treatment option.

Spinal Cord Stimulators can be used in a number of cases including:
